

The B.A. in Music focuses on the study of music within the context of a liberal arts curriculum. Students may select from concentrations in instrumental, piano and vocal performance. The program is designed to provide students with the opportunity to build on their skills within their musical discipline while expanding their knowledge in the areas of music history and music theory through. Fifty-one of the 120 hours are devoted to general studies which constitute a basic foundation for work and continuing growth. At the completion of the program, students may pursue careers in performance, studio teaching, or other professional endeavors as well as seek additional study leading to a graduate degree.

The Bachelor of Arts degree in Music program gives students:

- A knowledge of theory and construction of music;
- An understanding of the historical development and influence of music;
- The development of skills in musical performance;
- An appreciation of the creative aspects of music;
- The opportunity to work toward a career in music;
- A first-hand experience in sharing with others in music performance in the university's various performing groups;
- Foundations for graduate study.

Students have a variety of performance opportunities which include applied lessons, recitals, choir, and band. (All music majors are required to perform in departmental performance groups, recitals and to attend other performance activities. Junior and Senior recitals in a performing area are required.)

Students interested in the Bachelor of Arts in music should contact the department office or music faculty advisors for further information. An audition on a principal instrument is required for admission.
